ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION officers at Warren high are (l. to r.) Ken Hoffman, treasurer; Jim Griffin, president; Jack Suppa, vice president. Jim Tinelli is the secretary.

A BIG ONE. Philip Phillips, Venturatown, is pictured here showing off his big catch with one of his sons. He bagged the 24 pound, 8 ounce wild turkey Thursday between Four Mile and Six Mile. It's the biggest we have had reported this season.

DIRECTORS OF "STAG LINE", a three-act comedy presented by the Warren high school senior class last week were Miss Mary Jane McHenry (seated), dramatics coach, Judy Moore, Barbara Greenwald and Pat Dangelo.

STUDENT PRINCIPAL. The Student Council of Warren high school took over the reigns last Friday and ran all operations from the role of principal to janitor. This is Fran Wooster who acted in the position of principal.

THE WARREN CHAPTER of the Needlework Guild held its annual Ingathering and Tea in the Woman's Club last Thursday, when over 1300 garments were collected to be distributed among the four beneficiaries -- Children's Aid, State Nurse, Warren Relief and the Visiting Nurse. The Guild's motto, "A pair to wear, a pair to spare", entails the giving of two identical garments by its 500 members. One of the highlights of the directors' meeting presided over by Mrs. John Urbaitis (seated at right), president, was a thank you letter from the local Red Cross chapter acknowledging receipt of a $1,000 contribution from the Guild. Others in the picture are Miss Ursula Johnson, Girl Scout Executive, and Mrs. James Miller, vice president.

KUDOS TO BOB HOPE who on his Sunday night program said that when Elvis Presley sings Hound Dog it sounds as though the dog bit him.

He also said that everyone won the election. The Republicans have the President, the Democrats have Congress, and the television audience has its television back.

GOODWILL within the American home continues to be sought by utilities. The latest to join the home circle is the American Gas Association. It will take a piece of Playhouse 90, starting January 10. This program is screened by 125 tv stations. That nice friendly guy or gal from the utility companies is going to be in your home so much that you will feel he is doing you a favor every time a rate increase is suggested.

LATEST SWITCH on the Warren area school site is that the handful who oppose will claim it can not be legally voted on by the area board in December. These boys would be champions on Stop The Clock.

STATE POLICEMEN are needed in Pennsylvania. Examinations will be given in Erie on January 5. If you make it you will participate in six months of training at the Hershey Training School. Your pay at that time will be $75 every two weeks. If you complete the course, your compensation for the next two years will be $136.50 bi-weekly, plus uniforms, equipment, board, lodging, and traveling expenses.

You must be single, between 21 and 30, a legal resident of this state for a year, and have a high school education. Applications must be filed by December 7 with the State Civil Service Commission, Box 569, Capitol Park, Harrisburg. Forms may be obtained from the state police.

YOU CAN SERVE out your military obligation in the Coast Guard which also is looking for recruits. It is open to young men between 17 and 26, or to men with previous military service who are under 35.

QUITE A COW they have at the Rosecliffe Farm in Irvine. Known as Lulworth Pietje Flossy, she produces 20,514 pounds of milk a year, and 801 pounds of butterfat. If that means nothing to you, consider the fact that the average moo, moo comes through with 5,815 pounds of milk and 224 pounds of butterfat.

CHEAP BRIDGE. According to the Republic Steel Corporation the Pennsylvania Highway Department has come up with a novel structure that makes bridge-making inexpensive over small streams. You use a series of large drainage pipes, such as we have pictured being used in this county. Ours were singles, but by placing a row of them side by side, the water is carried through the pipes, earth is filled in between the pipes, and the bridge is built across the pipe and earth base. They hold up, are as strong as conventional bridges, and they cost a third less tax money to build. Nice combination.

THAT GAS BILL AGAIN?

We expect the natural gas bill to be introduced again at the next session of congress. This would remove controls of gas line prices and no doubt would result in higher gas bills for most of us.

We also expect the President to approve it. He vetoed the last one but not because he thought the bill was wrong. He said he didn't like the "arrogant" lobby that backed it.

This time the lobby may be smart enough to keep out of sight, but will that mean that lobby favors it any less? There is something inconsistent here.

Already we see maneuvers that suggest efforts on the part of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, of Texas, senate majority leader, to buck the liberal segment of the Democrat party. He has named Senator Mike Mansfield, of Montana, as whip. This is being considered an effort to obtain friends in the Democrats' new-found strength among senators in the Northwest and Mountain states.

However, we see something more. Oil has been found in Montana. Senator Mansfield last time voted for the natural gas bill. He is being rewarded by Senator Johnson in a double-bladed effort to tie northern groups into the southern conservative fold and to assure the bill's passage in 1957.

You, Mr. Gas Burner, will pay the bill.

HIGHWAY SAFETY STEPS

According to Lt. Governor Roy E. Furman, Pennsylvania is taking some definite steps to reduce highway casualties. In addition to the new suspension system, several suggestions have been made by the Crumlish committee which might result in some actions long advocated by many.

One of these would make it compulsory for owners of motor vehicles to provide financial responsibility as a prerequisite for obtaining a motor vehicle registration. This might keep a few irresponsible people from behind wheels and certainly it would prove less costly for the innocently injured, who many times suffer costly incapacitation for which they never are remunerated.

Another suggestion is that probationary licenses be issued to those between 16 and 18 years of age, and that all such applicants be required to pass a secondary school drivers course or a course offered by a licensed driving school.

The one we like best is the recommendation that periodic re-examinations be given all drivers. Operating privileges would be withdrawn where reasonable physical and mental standards were not met. You see too many people driving cars who obviously either have forgotten how or never knew.

All of us also get a little rusty on those traffic laws. A periodic examination would keep us informed.

This writer would add another suggestion to this list. We believe there should be training and examination areas in all counties. Too many drivers start their training by driving down the main highway. They learn very little about handling the car. We don't believe the average driver should be operating in traffic until he is completely familiar with his car and can steer, shift, and manipulate it easily.

These training areas could be constructed on large fields and would not be very expensive. Certainly they would not be costly if a green driver were made proficient before risking everyone's life with broad highway practice.

MECHANICAL SAFETY

There also is a need to synchronize mechanical improvements and state laws. An example of this is the plan to install lights on new cars in such a way that glare will be eliminated. Some planners of interstate highways are going to great expense to build the two lanes on different levels so that lights will not bother oncoming drivers. This could be done much more economically by making such lights legal in all states.

The lights of which we speak are those you see in combinations of four. A few of these are installed as intended, two lights for high beam and two for low. They provide light without blinding the eyes of one driver and without creating blind spots for the other.

However, some cars, such as Plymouth, are using two of these only for turn signals and parking. Law changes are awaited before the safe combination will be installed.

In Brief

FOUR CHARGES -- speeding, reckless driving, driving too fast for conditions and operating without a license (in other words the book)-- were thrown at Robert Kirik, Warren-Jamestown road, after he was apprehended by officials headed by a Conewango twp. officer Friday night. A fifth charge, a misdemeanor, hit and run, was dropped for lack of sufficient evidence when the man appeared before a justice. He was fined $65 for the other charges. Kirik had led authorities on a 25-mile chase at a high rate of speed Friday evening.

PLAINTIFF GETS VERDICT. A civil court jury handed down a verdict Wednesday evening in favor of the plaintiff, V. V. Bowman, of Kane, in his $14,000 (plus interest) suit against the Anderson Oil Co., of Warren.

The case arose out of a note given by the Anderson Oil Co. in 1954 for the sale of 14/77ths fractional interest in a gas well located in Benetzette Field in Elk County.

M. E. Anderson was president of the Anderson Oil Co., forerunner of the present Anderson Oil and Gas Co.

The plaintiff was represented by James Bly, Kane, with the Alexander, Clark and Mervine firm as local counsel. The defendant was represented by Samuel F. Bonavita.

OVER THE TOP. Young Men's Christian Association membership drive leaders and workers met at a Victory dinner Monday night and reported a grand total of 793 members secured toward a goal of 700. James Potter was campaign chairman and was assisted by Dan K. Walton, general secretary of the "Y".

BIGGER THAN EVER. Warren banks today mailed out Christmas Club checks to 6,437 members totaling $644,911.50. The average check this year is $100.18 in comparison to last year's check for $91.77. Although there are 96 less members in this year's club, the dollar volume has increased by $45,349.25. Last year's figures were 6533 members and $599,562.25. If the total amount saved by Christmas Club members increases next year at a similar rate to the past several years, the total should reach approximately $700,000.

PERSONALITIES. Rebecca Munn, seven-year winner in the National Auditions and June graduate of Miami Jackson high school in Miami, Fla., has been awarded a full-tuition scholarship to the University of Miami.

In addition to this scholarship, Becky won first place in piano auditions sponsored by radio station WVCG in Coral Gables, Fla., and received tuition in the University of Miami School of Music. She studied piano with Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell at the Warren and Miami conservatories.

Information in the above paragraph was taken from the National Guild published in Austin, Texas.

The publication also carried the following item:

"Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell -- Warren, Pa. -- During National Music Week, the second anthem of the Sunday service at the First Methodist Church (Warren) was dedicated to Dr. Campbell, 'Warren's most respected and beloved educator.' The anthem, 'The Benedictus', was written and published in 1915 and is the composer's favorite among his many compositions.

WHO IS TO BLAME is still to be determined in a car-pedestrian mishap that occurred at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at the intersection of Third ave. and Liberty st. It was reported that Barbara June Snyder, R. D. 2, Sheffield, was proceeding west on Third when she struck Frank Dodge, 66, of R. D., Clarendon, as he crossed the street.

Dodge suffered a bruised leg.

FAILURE TO SIGNAL resulted in the arrest of Leslie B. Gustafson, 413 Laurel st., Warren, when he pulled out of a Pennsylvania ave. parking space and struck a passing car operated by Mrs. Ronald Rieder, R. D. 2, Warren, at 3:46 p. m. Sunday.

About $350 damage was caused.

$400 DAMAGE was caused at 8:08 a. m. Monday at the intersection of Second ave. and East st. George Frits, 202 Connecticut ave., turned out of East st. and struck Maxine Marie Mitchell, R. D. 1, Spring Creek, as she proceeded down Second.

SENIOR STUDENTS of Warren high school may apply for four-year scholarships offered at 15 leading American universities by the Lockheed Leadership Fund. Full college tuition and fees, plus and additional $500 each year for personal college expenses, will be provided by the fund program sponsored by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to help deserving students interested in careers in private industry.

Further details are available at the high school principal's office.

THIRD ANNUAL DRIVE for funds to the Warren County Probation association starts next week. Members of the sponsoring Warren Rotary club will again be asked to call on three persons for contributions which will enable the investment to increase another $5000 -- the goal set each year.

NEED FOR ADDITIONAL drivers to transport children to the monthly clinic was emphasized at the Children's Aid Society directors meeting last week. The organization also plans to conduct its 'Happiness Fund' at Christmas again this year.

ALERTNESS on the part of a Warren State Police officer Sunday was responsible for the apprehension of two Medina, Ohio, young men who had been on a hub-cap snatching spree in Olean, N. Y.

Picked up near Pittsfield as they were proceeding home with $200 worth of loot were Joseph Felver, 18, and Lance Oliver, 17. They had left Medina Saturday to visit an aunt in Olean and while there made a trip around town selecting about 20 expensive hub-caps for their benefit.

The teen-agers were returned to Olean on Monday for prosecution.

A 15-YEAR-OLD Pittsfield boy, Charles Schell, was injured at 5:00 p. m. Sunday when the tractor he was driving was struck by an auto eight miles south of Youngsville on Route 27. The young man was proceeding down the highway when he was hit in the rear by Edith Rowley, Titusville. Damage amounted WORKERS PLAN STRIKE. So far as could be learned this morning, negotiations between members of Local Lodge No. 659 AF of L-CIO -- comprising shop employees of the Hammond Iron Works -- and company officials will continue today. The union workers have voted 76 to 13 in favor of a strike which will become effective December 1. A negotiating committee and labor mediator met with officials yesterday in an effort to reach an agreement. It was learned that the union members have a meeting scheduled for this afternoon.

HOME HEATING AT LOW COST

UNMISTAKABLY, it's true luxury heating with a famous Pennsylvania Air Conditioning Gas Furnace—even, constant temperature without effort... new cleanliness... years of efficient, trouble-free furnace operation. Ask us for complete details.

Help For Hungary

The mail is well supplied with appeals for help from agencies which want money with which to aid the Hungarians. If you are looking for ways in which to assist these people who have made their move for freedom we can give you several addresses.

The Christian Children's Fund, Inc. is concerned with orphans from Hungary and thousands are being assisted through Switzerland. This Fund has 221 orphanages scattered about the world in thirty-three countries. Sent its money to China Building, Richmond 4, Virginia.

Over 400,000 Pennsylvania church youth are seeking clothing, blankets, and money for the Church World Service, New Windsor, Maryland. Two hundred community youth councils have been asked to help provide material help to the refugees in this manner.

The International Rescue Committee appeals for funds to help over 30,000 Hungarian friends who have escaped, a figure probably far exceeded by this time. Admiral Richard E. Byrd writes a letter asking for money. You can send it to 62 West 45th Street, New York 36, N.Y.

On November 9 the Save The Children Federation sent over ten tons of clothing and a large sum of money to representatives in Vienna to help the refugees, Richard Saunders, president of this Federation, writes that its warehouses are being emptied to meet "one of the most tragic events in modern times". He urges you to send cash to "Hungarian Refugee Relief," Save the Children Federation, United Nations Plaza, New York 17, N.Y.

Bundles of adult and child clothing also are needed and should be sent to Save The Children Federation Warehouse, Knoxville, Tennessee.

AND WE URGE you to write your President and the Department of State urging them not to promise what they do not intend to back up. We should make our policy sufficiently clear to avoid misunderstandings by those so hungry for freedom that they may lay down their lives in the false belief that they have friends across the border who will lend them realistic support.

As for your own safety, civilian defense no longer is a plaything. It is time you took it very seriously. You should make personal preparations for any emergency that might develop. And the many civilian defense services can use some of your time, ability, and knowledge. The war gun may not be cocked, but we certainly have some greedy individuals in this little world who are straining to push it off safety.

TE LA DI O

AN AMERICAN SUNDAY

A visit that takes you throughout America and visits the three faiths in many cities, will be seen Sunday from 4 to 5:30 on NBC. Hosts will include Billy Graham and Theodore Lewis. Rabbi Lewis is an Irishman who officiates at the Touro Synagogue in Newport.

This is a Wide Wide World presentation, which roams from the Thomas Jefferson home at Monticello, through the St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Ave., to the Trinity Methodist Church in San Francisco, and on to the Temple Emanu-El in Houston, and so to the San Fernando Mission in California's San Fernando Valley. It visits an air force chaplain in Las Vegas, hears the famed negro choir of Dillard University, and listens to Billy Graham in the St. Louis Arena.

MORE NEW QUIZZES

Three new kinds of quiz shows are about to premiere. Contestants on The Price is Right, Monday, 10:30, will guess at the price of pins to sport cars. The best shopper is the one who comes closest and wins the product.

Also starting Monday, 9 p. m., is Can Do, in which the audience can earn up to $50,000 by guessing whether the celebrity performing a stunt can actually do it.

Both of these are NBC innovations. On December 22, CBS will start You're On Your Own, in which the contestants will depend on their wits and resourcefulness rather than their knowledge of any subject. They can win $25,000 on a single program by quickly using available facilities such as directories, telephone books, record albums, etc. The quicker they do their research, the bigger the take-home pay.

TV FOR ITALY

TV for the first time is now available to all of Italy, as two new relay stations open.

Quiz shows are popular, especially the "5,120,000" Live Quiz-tion". Another American-style program on the list of favorites is "Primo Applauso" (Talent Scouts). The Italian version of "What's My Line" ended in the obituary column. ***

ALL BY HIMSELF

Victor Borge will do a repeat one-man show on CBS-TV, Tuesday, December 11 from 9 to 10 p. m. Versatile Victor can go it for one solid hour (less commercials) and nobody yawns. ***

TURKEY DAY MENU

Thanksgiving Day will offer a varied bill of fare, TV-wise. Kick-off time for the Green Bay Packers-Detroit Lions pro football game will be high noon with Channel 4 bringing it play-by-play from Briggs Stadium in Detroit. During the half-time a special feature, "Letter from the DEW Line", will be shown. Filmed in the remote North, this will show the string of Air Force radar stations that will alert the U. S. and Canada in event of enemy attack.

For dessert there will be a gala festival of music at 5 o'clock. Joe E. Brown, Duke Ellington, Will Rogers, Jr., Corps de Ballet, Symphonette and Choraliers will dish up a cavalcade of melody from post-Civil War minstrelsy to today's rock 'n' roll.

"Climax at 8:30 will bring "The Chinese Game" with MacDonald Carey, Constance Ford and Anna May Wong. For cozy after-dinner entertainment try this old Chinese game which reveals a horrifying future of murder.

Grab a turkey sandwich and settle back for 90 minutes of "Eloise" at 9:30 on Playhouse 90.

DO YOU KNOW?

This is the name of a new series of informal half-hour educational programs for adults being offered on WBEN-Radio on Tuesday nights at 9:30. The program presents an experience in ideas, ranging from the launching of an earth satellite to what happens in a South Sea island when the 20th century meets the Stone Age; from what makes an earthquake to the latest studies in psychology; from the design and construction of a modern skyscraper to the function of the stock market. ***

OLD FAVORITE RETURNS

"Since You Went Away", a best-loved movie several seasons ago, returns for a two-part run on Channel 4's Golden theater, Friday night at 11:30 for part one and a week later, November 30, for the second part. Diverse scenes form the background for the romance, pathos and drama which fill the lives in this typical American home. Who plays in it? Claudette Colbert, Jennifer Jones, Shirley Temple, Joseph Cotton, Monty Woolley, Lionel Barrymore, Robert Walker and Guy Madison. ***

TURKEY PARADES

Macy's Thanksgiving parade can be seen at 11 a. m. Thursday, lasting until noon. Big names, big balloons, and big bands will help fill up the two-mile line.

The big names will include Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Paul Winchell and Jerry, Skip Jones, Captain Gallant, Li'l Abner, Ernie Kovacs, and the 77th Bengal Lancers.

Big balloons will impersonate Mighty Mouse, early French experimental balloons, and many others. There will be nine float tableaux, the principal one of which will be a replica of the early Mississippi paddle-wheel riverboats.

And the biggest high school marching band in the country will be seen, the York, Pa., William Penn high school unit, 165 strong. Another highlight will be the 60-girl majorette corps from Toledo,

Blind Lead Blind

By Doris Fleson

WASHINGTON. -- President Eisenhower is coming under heavy pressure from some of his most influential supporters to say "no" to Soviet Russia as that powerful nation moves toward control of the Middle East.

In a lead editorial the New York Times calls on him to prepare to use the strength of the United States against such Communist penetration and to "make the Russians understand that we are so prepared."

The Scripps-Howard newspapers are equally forceful. They are saying editorially that the only nation able to take the initiative is the United States. They want the United States to take the risk of making it "clear beyond any doubt that it will use force to prevent Soviet 'volunteers' entering Egypt."

The American ambassador to Italy, Clare Luce, wife of the publisher of Time-Life-Fortune, has returned home warning against another and equally fatal "Munich."

Very little was done in the national campaign just concluded to prepare the American people for such stark decisions. Some correspondents regularly called attention to the wide gap between the character of the campaign and Russian progress toward what Admiral Arthur Radford has aptly termed "the Communist goal of one big Red world."

The disinclination to look the other way was not confined to politicians. Adlai Stevenson is in that hell of the truth seen too late. He wanted to pitch his campaign to foreign affairs; he was dissuaded on the ground that President Eisenhower was impregnable in that area in the public mind, no matter what.

This may have been true. But Stevenson cannot now look back to a lucid, sustained record. He was induced to bank on the South, which did not deliver, on such so-called "pockets of discontent" as the farm areas, which did not pan out either, and on the issue of the President's health, which failed him.

Before returning to foreign affairs heavily in the closing weeks, Stevenson confused the public by his remarks on re-examination of the draft and new efforts to stop H-bomb tests. Thus he appeared -- incorrectly -- to be on both sides of strength and weakness. Anyway, it is now academic.

The loss to the President is that the largely irrelevant campaign leaves him singularly isolated as he copes with literally vital matters in these terrible hours. He is the more alone as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is in Walter Reed Hospital, recovering from cancer surgery.

Had there been any Senator who had consistently and astutely called attention to the dangerous shape of affairs in the world, the President might summon him to the White House now. None did.

Some foresaw the perils. But none risked the day-by-day challenge to Secretary Dulles and to public indifference with the kind of attack and educational struggle which would not elevate him to the role of prophet.

In a roughly analogous situation, Winston Churchill finally achieved a commanding voice because he never let himself be still, even when it appeared no one would listen.

There will be little difficulty getting Congress to follow the President when he leads. What Congress is not in a position to offer is help in the leading.

DON'T FEED THE DOG

Dogs running in packs are noticeable these days. Every fall the owners of dogs seem to become a bit careless about keeping them under control and they are very apt to team up in groups. This is one step from the pack and should be discouraged.

We suppose that the neighbors and their sensitivity about newly planted gardens discourage many dog owners from letting their animals have much freedom in the spring. In the fall no one seems to object very much and away they go.

Dogs can be dangerous when ganged together. What they lack nerve to do alone they may have the courage to attempt in packs. For example, the average dog will worry a cat but will run if pussy heads his way. But if several can surround a cat, and one has the nerve to move in behind the feline and obtain a hold, the rest will follow and someone will have either a dead kitty or a crippled one.

Dogs unfortunately are encouraged to run by many neighbors who don't have pets of their own but enjoy feeding the ones that stop at the back door. And the dog soon learns where the choice morsels are to be found. Many dogs have regular trails that run from select door to select door.

Though most people who feed dogs in this way have the idea that they are being kind to the animal, they actually are doing just the opposite. The owner should be very angry about and has a right to object strenuously. Though he hasn't much room to talk, inasmuch as he is guilty of not keeping his pet under control.

But the owner of a dog should control its diet. He loses such control as soon as others attempt to endear themselves to every pooch that comes by with the use of rich hand-outs. They actually are harming the animal's health.

These people are not exhibiting a big heart. They really are very selfish. The desire to be liked has extended even to animals and they can't resist feeding a dog because they instinctively want the dog to like them. The hurt in the dog's eyes when he is denied actually hurts them, and so they feed him to save their own feelings.

No one but the owner has the right to earn a dog's affections in this way. And if you really like dogs and cats, you should leave their diet alone. It is for the animal's good if one person handles the feeding, and the neighbors stay out of it.

THE SEASONS CHANGE

Saturday winds it up for one of the most pleasant hunting seasons we can remember. Not only did it start in October when there is a better than average chance of the weather being good, but even November, usually much like March, was cooperative and offered warm soft days for the outdoorsmen.

All of the small game ceases to be legal on Saturday, but there are some of the smaller animals which will be legal kills, starting December 1. From that date until January 14 and lasts until March 11.

The bear kill opens Monday, at 7 a.m. and lasts six days, closing at 5 p.m. on December 1. The bears are as plentiful as usual, with many of them becoming a nuisance in residential areas. One has been seen several times at the edge of Warren by Fifth ave residents. And there are many similar experiences reported throughout the county and the state.

Last year Pennsylvania lost 363 bears in two weeks of hunting, in

"You'd look sad too—if you'd been walking on your ears all day!"

1954 the kill was 403 in two weeks. In 1953 the gunners got 303 in one week.

A difference this year is that all small game hunting is abated and no one will be in the woods but those looking for bruin. Those who like bear hunting believe this good news. They can hunt without interference.

A bit of snow always is welcome. It quiets the woods, provides tracking, and establishes a background that makes it easier to abide by the law which says a legal bear must be a year old. Inasmuch as most bear are not inclined to carry a birth certificate and are as reticent about their age as Jack Benny, this no doubt will improve your guessing.

There are some other rules you better know. You can shoot just one, but a party of three or more can shoot only two. And if your group numbers five or more a roster is required.

You cannot use automatic, semi-automatic, or auto-loading guns of any kind. Pump shotguns firing rifled slugs or pumpkin balls and high-powered rifles may be loaded to capacity. Fire-arms of .22 or .25 capacity are prohibited.

Prohibited? They are ridiculous! Anyone facing a bear with a .22 is making it too sporting for the bear.

And another thing. If you are going hunting with a shotgun and pumpkin balls, take a friend along with a good rifle. After your ball has bounced off a bruin's skull, and Mr. Bear is chasing you down the great divide that is getting less great at every step, it will be nice to have that friendly rifle to back you up.

PLENTY for EVERYBODY!

Next Thursday, when Americans gather 'round the festive board, they'll face the greatest feast ever put before any people in history. Yes, there'll be PLENTY for EVERYBODY this Thanksgiving—because, since the first Thanksgiving, Americans have learned how to put their money to work for the good of all. The money you invest in a Savings Account works for YOU. It also works for others, helping to make every day Thanksgiving Day for EVERYBODY.

THOSE LIGHTS, AGAIN

We note that the local daily has been giving some space in late months and the radio has been providing air time to the view that Warren should have lights on its athletic field. This is one of those subjects in the category of daylight saving and religion when it comes to heated debates that arrive nowhere. Everyone goes away with the same convictions as those with which he started.

Not long ago we talked with a resident of the northern area portion of Warren county who told us that they were going to beat Warren by having lights for their football field. We explained that Warren did not have lights for its field because it didn't want them. Most of us have supported the school boards in this stand down through the years and were not disappointed when the Memorial Field budget ran out of funds before the lights were erected.

We can see an advantage to the Eisenhower school in having lights. Because of its location a major share of the people financing the school and its activities are from rural sections. A big proportion of them are farmers. You can't run a farm with a time clock. You must work with the seasons and the weather, and a week end can be the workinest part of your life if crops demand attention.

The Eisenhower school's athletic program will be enjoyed by a larger share of its supporting taxpayers if a major number of its attractions occur in the evening when rural folks can attend. It is a condition peculiar to many rural schools and those who promote it should be commended on their initiative and consideration.

There also are city situations that require lighted fields. If there are several schools and teams using a field, there are not enough Saturday afternoons to go around. Evenings must be used, and lights are the answer.

There also are communities of sufficient size to give professional teams a chance to survive in baseball and football. Night games are the only means of supporting teams which must play nearly every day and cannot expect a small town to provide week day crowds in the afternoon.

Do these patterns apply to Warren? We don't think so. Warren never has supported any professional effort, whether it be baseball, football, or basketball. It had the best in the nation on the court and failed to keep the team in town. It had Western Pennsylvania champions on the pro gridiron and let it die at the ticket window.

We never have tried Pony league baseball because of the lack of lights. But take a look at Jamestown, Bradford, and other towns in the Pony league. Even in these lush times they can't meet the bill, and city budgets are paying out funds to make up the losses on park upkeep costs.

We see no baseball teams building fields for minor league ball. We don't see them even paying for the installation of lights. If there were money to be made by such investments you can be sure that the major leagues would be supplying such facilities for their farm clubs.

The argument years ago, when most of our neighbors installed lights, was that the storekeepers could not go to the games on Saturday afternoons. Lights would let everyone attend on Friday night. But that no longer is the case. The storekeeper now is working Friday night, and games on Saturday nights have not proved very popular in smaller towns.

Friday night games would not be attended by those who work the second shift in many of our plants. They would not be attended by those who work in retail stores.

Saturday afternoon games are available to all who work the five day week, which covers the vast majority. They are played on beautiful fall afternoons, and they do not require night travel by teams and fans.

We can't imagine substituting a cold night and unnatural light for a warm afternoon and the daylight. It is not a substitute. It is a poor effort to garner in a few extra dollars.

In Warren we doubt if it would be a good investment, if you want to study it coldly in the light of dollars and cents. We have reviewed the potential attendance aspects which we believe would result in very little difference in the crowds and might even mean lighter crowds at night after the novelty had worn off.

So let's look just a mite further. Pony league baseball is not the answer. That we can see by checking with the many cities around us who are losing money and are giving up their Pony league franchises. And in football we have only five homes games. Does anyone believe that the increased attendance under these conditions at five home games would repay the cost of installing lights?

As for the cost of lights, that has been gone into quite thoroughly in Warren. It varies with the situation and the kind of lights you prefer. You can use second hand lights, volunteer labor, and come up with an inexpensive job. But to really install lights properly your field must be laid out to fit them so that many of the banks will serve more than one sport. And the conduits should be installed when the drainage work is done. This Warren failed to do.

We go along with those who cannot see this expenditure to provide lights for five football games a year, and the loss of those beautiful fall afternoons, with their sunshine, color, and comparative safety. We have seen or heard no argument in favor of lights which will stand up against the reasons for not having them.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY IT TO TRY IT!

Airport Murder Gunman May Be Paroled

Joe Senauskas, alias Joe Sennette, alias Gerald Chapman, who in June of 1936 confessed to the shooting of Metro Seminuk, proprietor of the Airport Inn, near Youngsville, has had his sentence commuted by the Pennsylvania pardon board and now must apply to the parole board for his freedom.

Senauskas, who was eighteen years of age at the time of the shooting, was one of three involved in the case. It was charged that he shot Seminuk with a gun owned by John Polens, of Garland, and that Polens paid $120 to Senauskas for the job. They rented a car from Buffalo in which Senauskas visited the Airport Inn. He shot Seminuk three times, one bullet piercing the heart. The shooting occurred about midnight, March 26, 1936.

It was alleged that Polens received the money from Mrs. Seminuk, wife of the victim, who asked him to use it to "get rid of her husband".

Mrs. Seminuk was tried and found guilty of second degree murder. Polens and Senauskas pleaded guilty and were given the chair by Judge D. U. Arird. They claimed he had promised them leniency if they would confess and they appealed the action. The state supreme court sent Judge James I. Brownell to Warren to investigate. He upheld Judge Arird.

Mrs. Seminuk was given one and a half to five years, and was released after serving the minimum. Polens was paroled about five years ago.

Senauskas now must prepare his appeal for parole and find a sponsor. He will be heard by the parole board late this month.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

THE LONG VIEW

Perhaps it was appropriate that one of the most progressive steps taken by Warren area school officials in recent years occurred during Education Week, when the Warren Area Joint School committee recommended that the area board build a new high school on the Swick site. Though you may not approve of the resolution in its entirety, you must admit that it represented a courageous move that breaks from much that is traditionally antique.

There is much need for courage today, especially in old towns where the past has deep roots, nurtured too many times by inherited narrowness and conservative money policies that date back to the days of the slate, the little red school house, and the seventy-two hour week.

If you knew your multiplication table you could keep pace with the horse and buggy and the twelve-hour production line. We now require the advanced scientific minds that will design and operate machines which will more than meet our needs in four short days of work, leaving us three days and long evenings in which to occupy ourselves intelligently.

The new economy which is rushing in upon us will force us to shed the lines which have hampered the broader view. We must lose our fear of the state by learning to democratically control it. We must provide an enlightened public that can shake off the narrow borders of the past, township, state, and maybe nation, to learn to live in a shrinking world.

We must find new ways of financing, and be willing to accept the fairer methods which can be effected on state and national levels. We must accept the dollar from state and national governments with the full knowledge that we also can control that dollar with the help of election changes that will give the people full voice in the selection of officials.

A fairer method of taxing than the real estate assessment must be found, or at least we must find a fairer method of assessing the real estate. We have not seen the real estate answer either in practice or in the planning stage, despite sincere efforts in some quarters.

An equitable form of tax that will assess according to income may some day be found and, more important, accepted by an eventually alert taxpayer, a taxpayer who today doesn't recognize what is best and chooses to approach his tax bill like an ostrich. He likes those he doesn't see in a single lump or deducted in a practical manner from his pay.

America may be falling behind in the education field. Russia is making many more scientists. The all-powerful state may be the wrong method, but we are not countering it by intelligently using our democratic processes.

While Russia grinds out students who may take the lead away from us in scientific, agricultural, and industrial production fields, our legislators play politics with education bills, and many distressed school districts find it financially impossible to entice good teachers to inadequate facilities from which too few young people come forth with a thought of higher education.

They played politics with the education bill by voting to add an anti-segregation amendment so as to embarrass southern Democrats. Then defeated the bill on the grounds that we must not give federal money to the local school governments for fear that control would follow money.

The same people who present this argument against federal help often are the ones who view with alarm the money it will cost property owners to provide the schools and teachers we require.

We think it inconsistent for one profession to be repaid in thousands of dollars per year while another finds it difficult to support its families. The doctor earns big money and it is well said that he deserves it because he saves lives. We believe it follows then that the teaching profession should be well paid because the very life of the nation may depend on its quality.

If the physician can contend that good doctors will not be attracted to that profession unless big money is possible, is not the same true of teaching?

If we can spend billions to make weapons, can we not spend billions to provide the brains which will conceive such weapons?

If local real estate taxes are unfair to the poor property owner, why should we hesitate to let the income tax help do the job?

Few if any of us can see the future, and for that reason we are happy that the area school officials have taken a step toward an expanded school system. While a few pettish debate whether the school should be located on an area of sufficient size to meet future needs or on a much more limited area that actually touches its border, these officials have had the courage to proceed on the broader plain.

Of the large sites available, the Swick site is closest to the center of Warren population. The question of access is a stall in this day of motoring. Ask the residents of Fifth ave. extension, and Jackson st. extension, and Scandia how they get home. If they have trouble on those climbs it happens long after they have passed Lookout st. or Prospect.

If we are to keep pace in this race for freedom in the world, we must revolutionize much of our

Parties Within Parties

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- The cue let fall by President Eisenhower that he is going to work "incessantly and industriously" to try to implant "modern Republicanism" into his party has been taken up by the Eisenhower wing of the party in Congress.

Unfortunately for its aims, this wing of the party is in the minority, both in numbers and influence, in Congress. That is somewhat offset, however, by the backing promised it by the powerful and immensely popular President in the arduous job of "modernization" it is undertaking in the next four years. The President would be its best publicity agent if he really works at it.

The size of the "modernization" task was suggested by the President himself when he said the voters still are not convinced that the GOP has espoused "modern Republicanism." That was his blunt analysis of the failure of the party to win Congress in the recent election while he was winning by a landslide.

In his diagnosis of the party's need to modernize itself, he finds agreement in ranks of progressive Republicans in Congress. In fact, one of them, Senator George Aiken of Vermont, said if the party fails to do so, "it is likely to be out of office a long time."

Aside from the promised backing of the President, the Eisenhower wing of the party has another advantage in Congress. This is in the fact that the Democratic party element controlling Congress -- the element which makes the record and which gives the party its coloration with the public -- is the Southern conservative wing.

Though in numerical minority, it is dominant in Congress through occupancy of most of the key posts. Nor is it representative of the Democratic party in the nation, for it is in the minority there, too. But for the Republicans' purposes, it is the tail which they can use to wag the dog before the public.

Though the Southern wing of the Democratic party can never win an election, it can help the Republicans win future elections, as it helped in the Eisenhower landslide a few days ago. It will aid Republicans if it submerges its own progressive wing in the North and West, as represented in Congress, and bottles up social welfare and civil rights legislation.

It is in this area that the Eisenhower wing of the Republican party in Congress will seek to challenge the Southern Democratic leadership. In every way possible it will try to keep the Dixie face of the Democratic party showing.

This strategy was indicated by another member of the Eisenhower wing in his reaction to the President's observations about the need for "modern Republicanism." This was Senator Clifford Case of New Jersey.

He listed the sort of measures the Republican party must constantly push in the coming Congress -- legislation on civil rights, housing, help for labor and small business, aid to education, revision of the immigration laws.

The Republican party, he said, "will be successful in future elections only as it proves its desire and ability to carry out such programs."

In some issues on his list, especially civil rights, he hit at the Achilles heel of the Democratic party, the vulnerable Southern appendage. This weakness was brought home to the Southern leaders in the loss of five of their states to President Eisenhower, for the Negro vote was a big factor.

This was a revolutionary development of which the real significance still is not generally apparent. The bankruptcy of Southern leadership was graphically demonstrated when it not only helped to lose the North but was able to hold only a thin corporal's guard in its own once "Solid South."

We see a situation in Congress where the more progressive wings of both parties will be trying to make over the parties in their image. In this endeavor, they will be in competition. But they also will find themselves often on common ground -- in the measures they support and in another way.

This other way is that they will find themselves butting their heads against a common enemy. That common enemy will be the long-familiar coalition of Southern conservative Democrats and conservative Republicans, both of whom hold the key places in their party in Congress.

This coalition is, in truth, a party in itself, often a major party. It plays to the conservatives of each party, putting through, for example, such legislation as the natural gas and tidelands oil bills. Then it does everything possible, as it did in the last Congress, to keep from the public the real story of how the oil lobby operates and how it contributes to campaign funds of both parties.

TRYOUTS CONTINUE

Joe Massa, head cage coach at Warren high, has been continuing tryouts and now has his potential narrowed down to less than 15 men.

Heading Massa's 1956-57 edition are returning lettermen Ed Ricker and John Powley, although the latter is still hampered somewhat with a football injury.

Bill Dahl is showing great promise in the pivot and as a rebound man and is being challenged by other big boys named Jim Mohnkern and George Rasmussen.

Working for the outside berths on the Dragon five are Dick Danielson, Steve Lindquist, Jack Karkosky, Tom Schaeffer, Chuck Still, Lou VanBlois, and Nick Monroe, a transfer student from Dunkirk, N.Y. Another prospect is John Berdine, who is still wearing a cast for a broken hand received in football.

VETERAN. This is John Powley, one of a pair of returning lettermen to this year's Dragon cage team. John also played varsity end for Warren high this season.

WHS GRID LETTERMEN

Warren high school director of athletics, Joe Massa, today released the names of 23 athletes who will be awarded varsity letters for the 1956 football campaign.

Seniors receiving their second letters will be John Powley, Jim Griffin, John Berdine, Bob Hartnett, Dick Kremer and Henry Lanman. First year letter winners who will graduate are Dave Swanson, Harry Brooker, Clarence Jenkins, John Salerno, Bruce Trevenen, Ron Sanden, Ted Rosequist, and George Rasmussen. Also Curt Johnson and Phil Cerra, senior managers.

Connie Hultman is the lone junior to be a recipient of a second award. Other juniors are Dave Sedwick and Jack Suppa. The sophomores are Lou Mascaro, Bill Mervine, Don McKelvy and Jim Olson.

HOUSE OF DAVID

Warren's Style Shop basketball team will entertain the famed House of David five on Beaty court Friday night. Tip-off time for the preliminary is 8:00.

Of keen interest in the contest will be the appearance of Ed Lindberg with the bearded outfit. Ed, a former star with the local Style Shop team, has just joined the House of David five.

The local squad Friday will feature Gail Nelson, Bob Wolfe, Dick Christensen, Bob Reese, Hud Berdine, Dick Hartnett and Jeff Homan, Warren performers, and the Kulka brothers--Basil and Mike of Ludlow.

Mel Bines is guiding the Stylers this season.
